KEZAR FALLS

Baccalaureate Services—Kiwians Entertained.

Last Sunday morning was baccalaureate service, and the graduates of Porter high school, marched into the church to music, and listened to a very fine sermon from the pastor, Rev. Arthur Callaghan, who has been their good friend through their years of advancement, always kind and thoughtful, he has helped them in many ways. A true friend they will remember him in the years to come, and his influence will remain with them for all time. Mr. Callaghan's text was from Romans, 12th chapter and third verse, "For I say unto everyone among you, not to think more highly of himself than he ought to think, but to think soberly, according as God has dealt to every man the measure of faith." After the service, the author, "Praise and Adoration" was sung by the choir, also hymn "Worship". Prayer by the pastor. "Rock of Ages", sung by male quartette, singing, "Praise and Adoration". There were ninety and nine ladies quartette, sermon, hymn, "The Christian Life", benediction.

There were no services in the Advent Church, Sunday, at present, owing to the quarterly meeting being held in the old Porter church.

Frank Roberts and family, who have been very sick, are recovering slowly.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ward of Freeport have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Sawyer.

Rev. Arthur Callaghan was called to Greenville, Indiana, Sunday, by the death of Mrs. Callaghan's brother, Professor Caldwell of DePaul University, a man of much erudition and a traveler of some distinction, he had been in failing health for some time. The body will be brought back to Oxford and interred beside his father and mother.

Kezar Falls Kiwanians were entertained last night, on the evening of June 8th by the ladies of the Congregational church in Limerick. The supper was one of the best and greatly enjoyed by the forty-five to fifty guests, who dispersed of the tempting refreshments. Some extra singing was done between courses by way of showing their thankfulness. After the banquet was over, Rev. A. Morrison of Limerick, who was the speaker of the evening introduced his subject, which was "Comparative Religions", but they lacked interest with the one familiar with the audience and included, went to their homes contented with the religion that was theirs from their youth up.

Rev. Bert Shorey's brother from Boston has been his guest for a few days.

We are having rainy weather, one rainy day and a rainy night follow each other until the week is past, the streets are sloppy, the roads full of puddles and the rain continues. Everything is clean and green and growing fast, but the lovely spirals are losing their white color.

CONGRESS DEFINES NATUROPATHY

The following definition for Naturopathy was passed by Congress on February 13, 1931, without a dissenting vote. The Senate advised and permitted the Commission of Licensure to allow the Naturopathic definition, with the tremendous opposition of thirty-five medical doctors being present, the Board of Commissioners of the Healing Art, and special representatives and attorneys of the American Medical Association and others:

"It is further enacted that 'naturopathy' as used in the aforesaid Act, hereafter shall comprehend, embrace and be composed of the following acts, practices, and usages: Diagnosis and practice of physiological, mechanical and material sciences of healing as follows: The physiological and mechanical sciences such as the mechanotherapy, articular manipulation, corrective and orthopedic gymnastics, neurotherapy, psychotherapy, hydrotherapy, and mineral baths, electrotherapy, thermotherapy, phototherapy, chromotherapy, and dietetics which shall include the use of foods of such biochemical tissue-building properties and cell salts as are found in the normal body; and the use of vegetable oils and dehydrated and pulverized fruits, seeds, berries, herbs, roots and vegetables uncompounded and used in their natural state. Passed the House of Representatives February 7, 1931. Attest: Wm. Tyler Page, clerk."

Our Present Situation

By R. L. Cummings of West Paris

How beautiful upon the mountain top see the feet of him who bringeth glad things."

We have looked and listened to many the have appeared. Mr. Leg of the Federal Farm Board, a man from the Harvester Trust, reputed to be a great business man, with a thousand others told us that our life preserver is to produce less, and get more money for what we produce. Now comes Mark Sullivan from Washington with much writing in the Lewiston Sun and tells us that great farm crops has been, is now and will be the one thing that will carry our great ship of state out of the "Doldrums" into the trade-winds of prosperity, and that this great depression will now start to vanish because good crops are now indicated.

Isn't it strange?

Last year, with a terrible drought on more than twenty of our states, some of the shortage of farm products would make prices high; yet farm products could not be sold for the cost of production.

Now Mark, if we are on top of our trumpets to have an abundant crop so that the farmers will have to have full crews to harvest and the railroads will have to have full trains and full crews to haul it will you please tell us that in "heck" we are to pay for it? Who will have the money to pay for it?

We all know that there are a lot of people that have a mighty craving in

I hope that Mark won't succeed in getting Al Smith and Hoover at the head of their tickets for 1932. Still, if he puts that fear into our heads strong enough, it may frighten us into action and avoid such a disaster. Since Al became a sympathizer with the Hoover administration, it seems that this is a consummation that big business devotedly wishes for.

There is another matter that I wish Mark would straighten out. Last fall I loaded a car of nice Baldwin apples that cost 85c per barrel. The carload cost $175.95, I paid $325.49 freight to Sault
St. Marie, Michigan. Now the railroads are all to ask for another increase in freights. They say it is to keep up dividends.

If I figure it right, that $325.49 with something more added to it had to come out of the fellow that raised the apples and the fellow that ate them. Unless a man stops and thinks and figures, he fails to realize how badly these increases on transportation get all of us. The man that bought those apples in order to get $35.19 on the cost of the apples and $65.30 on the cost of the freight. In addition to this, the general increase in rates adds much more to the cost of production as well as the increase in cost of all items of living to the consumer making it harder for him to buy the apples as well as all other things he buys.

Wages are being reduced. Farm prod-production are still to be assessed more

Frances M. Frost

Somewhat or other, every poem of Frances M. Frost has a certain quality of its own that makes one sit out for a special place in one's poetry scrapbook. The first volume of her work came from Yale University Press in 1929 and was called "Hemlock Wall", brought out in the Yale Series of Younger Poets. In this book of poems, Miss Frost presented her impressions of New England in a vivid, modern manner, every poem swinging with a fresh lyrical breath of Yankee soil.

The success of "Blue Harvest", her latest book, is already established, for in the new group, one sees a more finished, a deeper and maturer presentation of the actualities of New England. "Blue Harvest" is Miss Frost's proof that she is not only a poet but a leader among the younger poets who are expressing, in the idiom of their own day, the beauty of life as they see it today; and as Frances Frost herself has once said, they are showing beauty through the concrete things we live with and not through a mass of abstract ideas. It is the "autumn, sufficient fact" that concerns Miss Frost.

In the poem, "Declaration", Frances Frost has laid down her credo, which being a woman, she has a right to create! Nevertheless it expresses her present idea of life and living.

Declaration
I keep a covenant with death,
Who, in this transient season hour,
Have no desire to ferret out
The purpose of the frosted flower Sent upon a chilly stem or whitened grassblades I will cry
To dark and thunderous regions
Against the instant of the sky.
I caught as they in this quick life, Impermanently set, as they,
For little longer than a day.
Here keep with death my scrupulous pact.
Translating neither death, nor life,
As the answer, sufficient fact.
Accepting this miraculous being.
The first group of poems in "Blue Harvest", remind one very much of Edna St. Vincent Millay, especially the poem, "Day", which is very like Miss Millay's great poem, "Renascence", but which lacks the greatness of that beautiful piece in sheer poetry and ecstasy of emotion. In the lightness of her lyrics, Miss Frost is also like Edna Millay, but better at times than the author of "Fatal Interview", who seems to no longer know the real joy in nature that so characterizes Frances Frost's work.

It is difficult to believe that this poet is entirely the poet of "Declaration", so evident is her sense of the actual beauties of her experience, which she cannot refrain from probing. A poem in the new volume, called "Pattern" would seem to be the antithesis of the previous poem quoted here.

Pattern
These apple trees have weather of their own,
Let color of day and night be theirs alone,
Let day be yellow or blue, let avalanches
Of powdery white be blown through naked Branches.
There is a pattern here unchanged by season,
A handle of mood, a rough and constant reason,
Though the years shift, these trees, at a slant Contain their own perverse and darkened weather.

Miss Frost is also like Robert Frost (no kin) in her touch of terseness and easy epigram found in several of the poems in "Blue Harvest". The poem, "Share", contains this quality so frequent in Robert Frost. It is one of a group entitled, "Song Out of a Rainy Night".

—Henry David Davis.

WEST LOVELL

Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Lord entertained twenty-eight relatives and friends on Sunday, May 31st. Mr. Lord has some very pretty baskets he has made. Mrs. Lord is still doing her work with the aid of her husband and son, Clarence, though in very poor health.

Byron C. McAllister is getting on Lake Kears. Wendall McAllister's hired man has been doing some plowing and pulverizing for him.

Ernest Cousin and Harvey Parker of North Waterford called on Orlando Alford and Zach McAllister last Friday.

Mrs. Eliza Lord, who has been spending the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Ervin Bowley, returned to Rumford with her daughter, Lillian Lord, and Mrs. Bion Rose and family, Monday.

Mrs. Geo. Guphill has been painting some chairs and has begun doing work in the laundry.

Sam Randall has finished work for Wendall McAllister and moved to Stor.

Geo. H. Fox took W. A. Lebaron to Lewiston for a treatment for rheumatism last Sunday.

LOVELL

There was a number of visitors from out of town, Memorial Day, among them were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Holt of Massachusetts, at Orson Andrews' and Mr. and Mrs. Carl of Massachusetts and G. W. Walker.
